The great success with which the introduction of Kruse's Fluid Magnesia has met in Victoria has been an inducement of sending a supply to Sydney, and Mr. Kruse trusts that his superior colonial productions will find a similar favourable reception in Now South Waise, and Will be preferred to the weak and uncertain, and, therefore, unreliable importations hitherto pervailing in these colonies.

Kruse's superior Fluid Magnesia is sold by all Chemists throughout the Australian colonies, in bottles of 1s. 6d, 2s. 6d., and 3s. 6d. each. With the Syrup of Raspberry and Lemon it forms a grateful drink, often recommonded by medical men for allaying thirst during fever and in warm weather, for the cure of heedache, nausea, and vomiting, and as a pleasant and mild apprient.

THE BEST LEMEDY FOR COLDS, COUGHS
INFLUENZA, MEASLES, FEVER, &c.— NEWBLRY'S DR. JAMES' FOWDER is the best and East renowned remedy, in this changeable climate, for tolds, caughs, measles, and influenza, which carry of thousends yearly, and are but modified types of fever caused by obstructed perspiration. A medicine like NEWBERY'S DR. JAMES' FOWDER is particularly valuable, by promoting a gentle perspiration, a single dose causting immediate relief, and in rheumstim, ague, and asthma has been proved most useful. The experience of 116 years has increased its reputation, both with the public at medical profession, who prescribe it largely, while by its case of administration it is unsupasseed as a family modicine. As many spurious imitations are sold, it is necessary to observe that the name of the proprietor, "F. NEWBERY, No. 45, St. Paul's Churchyard," London, is on each Government Stamp. Packets, 2s. 9d. Bottles, 4s.

HAYES'S CONCENTRATED SPECIFIC, for the Fravention and Cure of Scab in Sheep.
An effectual cure for scab in sheep, superseding altogether the use of arsenic, tobacco, and other remedies hitherto the use of arsenic, tobacco, and other remedies hitherto applied.

The great advantages of Hayes's Specific over every other application heretofore adopted are—its economy, by which a very material saving is effected; its simplicity, requiring only to be thoroughly mixed by boiling; its curative effect on the skin, cleaneing the woel, whilst stimulating and increasing its growth; its perfect freedom from noxious or pelaconous elements; and its portability, effecting a very large saving in the cost of carriage.

From this date the strength of the Specific will be increased, so as to allow of the solution being made in the proportion of 40 gallons of water, instead of 30 as heretofors, to one of the specific, or 2000 gallons of water to the hegshead. This will in fact reduce the price to less than three half-pence per gallon.

Full directions accompany each package.

Mr. HENRY BBIT has received instructions to offer for SALE, by private contract, the valuable station of Box Vale, consisting of five blocks of very superior absence to the pountry. Box Vale is about twenty-two miles from the well-known valuable run of Mount Halton, belonging to Messrs. Kent and Co., and comprises the main heads of the Dawson River, including the tributaries failing into the main river, and the country within the watersheds of the same.

the country consists principally of very beautiful undusting red soil and trapatone ridges, very lightly timbered, principally with box, in portions with myell, and is abundantly watered; the grazing capabilities are very extensive. With the station will be sold 28,000 cheep, more or less, and 700 head of cattle. The sheep are superior, and brid from some of the best blood in Queensland—the proprietor having culled his flocks extensively in 1860 and 1861, and introduced fresh blood from the Glengarran, Felton, Gowrie, and Bossils flocks. The cattle consist of a mixed well-bred heard.

Intending purchaseus are recommended to visit the station, and have an opportunity of judging of the character of the country and stock, of which full particulars will be given in a future advertisement. A rough chart of the run may be seen at Mr. HENRY BEIT'S Office, 5, Wysyard-street.

lave so extensively supplied themselves since the opening of his

AUTUMN and WINTER GOODS.

The crowded state of the premises during the last three weeks sufficiently proves the advantage buyers have in making their purchases at this house.

I feel that kful to the many settlers and storskeepers in the far interior who, through great inconventiones, have arrived in found uning the week, and has made very large selections of winter goods.

To those of my country buyers who have sent their orders through the week I also feel obliged.

Their orders shall always receive my heat attention, and are attended to by one thoroughly acquainted with the requirements of settlers and storskeepers.

On account of the great smeant of business done this week, and consequently the great reduction in many of the departments, I teel it in justice to my tumercuse patrons to replanish the various departments so as that there should be no dirappointment.

I have, therefore, determined on opening a large portion of my winter stock now in packages, and shall commence THIS MORNING (caturday), and have them distributed through the house by ten o'clock on MONDAY MORNING.

now opening, and will be arranged in the various departments by 10 o'clock on MONDAY MORNING, and will be thered during the week, at the EMALLEST FOSSIBLE ADVANCE ON COST.
I'ven buyers are requested to visit this satablishment carly in the week, and secure for themselves some really cheap and useful goods, particularly in the shawl and diess departments, se, from the number of large orders coming in daily from the country, these goods will be considerably reduced before the end of the week.
Having now amounced to my friends and the public generally the opening and classifying of these goods for the convenience of my customers, I shall only say that they were all carefully selected and well bought in a depressed market, the advantage of which I shall give to my nanceous buyers.

LAW.

SUPREME COURT,—FRIDAY,

SITTIMGS IN BANCO.

BEFORE the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Wise.

IN REN KENNA, ORNILEMAN, ONE, RIC.

The role nist in this case was enlarged until Tusaday upon the motion of Mr. Issace; Mr. M'Kenna requiring further time for his alsawer.

Upon the motion of Mr. Meymott, the order of Mr. Justice Milford, made in January last—whereby the prohibition against the conviction of the defendant by the Picton Bench was discharged with costs—was made a rule of Court.

FETATE OF ELLAS MONES AND RENJAMIN MENJAMIN, Mr. Milford applied, under rule of Court, for permission to give additional evidence for the purposes of an appeal by a creditor who had proved against the estate of Moses, and who sought to be admitted as a creditor against the joint estate.

Mr. Januare opposed the amplication.

tie o'her side to cross-examine and to give other evidence.

THE QUEEN V. ROSENSKI AND ANOTHER.

This was a special case from the Central Criminal Court. The prisoners had been tried and convicted—one for stemining in a dwelling to the value of £5, and the other for receiving. At the tital a statement made by one of the prisoner's, and bearing his signature, was given in evidence. This statement was made at the Police Court prior to the prisoner's committal. Two objections were raised against its administibility—first, that he'ore taking this statement the magistrates had not given to the prisoner the second caution prescribed by the Justices Act. Secondly, that he'ore so taking it they had not caused the whole of the depositions to be read over as was required by the same Act. But a forther question was whether, even if not adminible under the Statute, this statement or confession was not admissible at common law. A further question was, whether there was sufficient evidence to sustain the curveiction as for stealing in a dwelling to a greater value than £6 at any one time.

Mr. Martin, Q C. and Mr. Dalley appeared in support of the objections, and Mr. Windeyer in support of the conviction.

Mr. Martin, Q.C., and Mr. Dalley appeared in support of the objections, and Mr. Windeyer in support of the conviction.

Their Henora held that the prisoner's a attenunt was not admissible under the Act, because the majestrates had not caused the whole of the expositions to be read over to the prisoner before ashing him whather he had any such statement to make. It could not be too generally known by majistrates that they were bound to do this. It was not sufficient that the depositions were read over to each witness, as he concluded his evidence. The whole must be read over to the prisoner at the close of the case, before he was asked whether he had any statement to make. Their Honers were also of opinion that the second caution prescribed by the statute should be given at this time, although (according to a decided case which was elided) the absence of this second caution did not necessarily render the prisoner's attainent inadmissable. But while thus holding this particular deciaration to be inadmissible under the statute—without additional proof—their Honers were of opinion that it was admissible under the statute—without additional proof—their Honers were of opinion that it was admissible under the statute—without additional proof—their Honers were of opinion that it was admissible under the statute—without additional proof—their Honers were of opinion that it was admissible on proof of its having been so made. Upon this ground, therefore, the verdict was held to be sustainable. But upon the question as to the stealing, they had not made up their minds. One point connected with the latter question was this—tven if it should be held that the case unde out was case of simple larcany only, the sentence passed—five years' penal servitude—was one which might have been passed for simple larcany only, the sentence passed for simple larcany only, the sentence passed for simple larcany only, the sentence passed for simple larcany only. Their Honora would be glad to receive any authorities, or to hear any further arg thought necessary—upon this point.

EXPARTS SHERLOCK.

This was a proceeding by hoboas corpus, under which Rien Sherlock sought to ebtain possession of her child, Kate Sherlock, otherwise called Kate O'Brien, aged one year and eleven months, at present illegally detained by a Mr. and Mr. Kelly. It appeared that the child had been placed in the Reman Cathello Orphan School at Paramants, by the mother, at a time when the latter was unable to maintain it, and had been recently got out of the Orphan School by Mrs. Kelly under the presence, as was stated, that she had the mother's authority to take the infant. The detention was not attempted to be justified on any legal ground, but merely that the Kellys, who had formerly had the oare of the child, were strongly statched to her.

Mr. Windeyer appeared for the mother. The Kellys sppeared in person, Mrs. Kelly carrying the child.

Their Honors directed the restoration of the child to the mother, who stated that she was in a respectable situation, and able to take care of her.

mother, who stated that she was in a respectable situation, and able to take care of her.

THE QUEEN V. BLACK PETER.

This was a special case from the Goulburn senizes. The prisoner, an aboriginal native, had been tried, convicted, and sentenced to death for the murder of his gin, a woman of the same race. The woman had been seen wounded on the New Fouth Wales side of the Murray, but her body had been found buried on the Victoria side. The evidence as to where she died was said to have been indistinct, it was now contanded that upon this fact as to where the woman did depended the question as to whether or not the Courts of New South Wales had jurisdiction, consequently that it ought to have been left to the jury, whereas it was distinctly withdrawn from them. By the Resident Julges Act a concurrent jurisdiction to the catent of twenty-five miles on either side of the boundary was given to both Courts, but by the Act of separation, it was contended, this was taken away; and the jurisdiction would solely belong to that colony within the boundaries of which death had taken place.

Mr. Singreen appeared for the prisoner, and the Attorney-Certu-d for the Crown.

Thir Hitcher received judgment.

BITCHE JUDGE Cheeks.
THE MAYOR AND ALDERMEN V. TOOGOOD.
This was an action to recover £16 164. for severage refer. When the case was cuided on the Judge stated that the same question as he presumed was involved in this case had been before him on a former occasion in a case of the Nayor v. Mofflet, when he had decided in favour of the defendant. If this case were tried, and he decided errobeously, he could not be set right, as there was no appeal in any case where the amount such for was under £30. The matter in contest was of considerable importance, and it would be better if it could be decided by the Supreme Court in the first instance. After some noral development of it was agreed that the case about he withdrawn, and that defindant should rate one objection to an action being trought against him in the Supreme Court. Mr. Fancett for plaintiff, Mr. Issaen for decindent.

There were four other cases, against Mosses. Nash, Bürgor, Hill, Siggerson, and Lemban, which were also withdrawn.

CLARENCE RIVER STEAM COMPANY.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—Your Grafton correspondent is hardly fair to the Clare nee and Richmond River Steam Navigation Company. He blames the directors for the consequences of the late floods, and shifting of the sand-banks at the mouth of the river, which have been the cause of the irregularity he complains of.

The steamer Agnes Irving ought, in due course, to have left Sydney en the afternoon of Saturday, April 4th, but, being detained at the Clarence bur on account of the heavy see, she did not arrive in Sydney until Saturday night. A large quantity of carge had been sent down for her during Friday and Saturday, and Monday being a cless heliday, on which no cargo would be sent, it was determined to send her away on Monday morning. A double gang of men was procurred, and at one o'cleck on Monday morning the delivery of her cargo was commenced, and she was coaled, loaded, and drepatched about ten o'clock on Monday morning. In duing this, it was onsidered by the Company, but conferring a great advantage on the inhabitants of the Clarence district. Your correspondent says that there was no "return" mail, by which he means, I presume, that answers to letters sent by the steamer were not received on her return, but due Lotice was given to the Post Office, and a mail containing the letters and papers which had accumulated during the week was sent by hor.

I'ethaps you will permit me to say that the directors are most arxives that its should be known that the Agnes Irving, being one of the fastest boats in the colony, they are desirout the inhabitants of the Clarence should have the advantage of quick communication, on fixed days, for the despatch of the mails and passexpare from each end; and this, notwithstanding the trying weather of the last tew most hat, they have effected in thirteen out of the fifteen week was a proportion of cases during the entire year. In order to effect this, as he will only call at one wharf in each township, leaving the other vessels to collect entire district,

Your correspondent wishes to know when the Urara will be placed on the line. The answer is—whenever (after the nizidle of next month) there is likely to be trade for her.
But with the Aguse Irving (with accommodation for eighty past-engers, and seldom having twenty) making four trips as month, the Graffon three trips a month, the slatbow an occasional trip, and two droghers on the river (a second one being nearly ready), I do not think that is likely to be the case at present.

Yours, &c.,
A DIRECTOR.

Ein, — Your correspondent, Nr. James Pye, has been good exough to prescribe the Gishwrst compound as an infallible ture for all my disease.

Pray sak him, or some other kind friend, further to say what this compound is, and how and where producable, for the benefit of The Orchard, 15th April.

PARLIAMENTARY VAGANCIES.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Fin.—Your daily contemporary of Wednesday last (informed in some mysterious manner) gravely announces, for the brift of the public that the absence of the line, the Speaker from Sidney will delay for a shrift inso the isduct a writ for the election of macher usember, in the place of Mr. J. H. Arkinson, disqualified by an act of insolventy, and it is further stated that Mr. Arkinson, on the lith again to be nominated as a candidate.

Mr. Hay is exactely likely, in the discharge of his high functions, to countenance an illegal act, which the acceptance of the resignation to the Speaker, and is again to be nominated as a candidate.

Mr. Hay is exactely likely, in the discharge of his high functions, to countenance an illegal act, which the acceptance of the resignation referred to, with a view to issue a writ, would undoubtedly be. A rule hid for the sequention of Mr. Arkinson's create was granted in the insolvency jurisdiction of the Superme Court on 24th March, and by that procedure his cent in the Assembly became vacant. Mr. Arkinson, therefore, on the 14th day of this month, was not the holder of a seat in the Assembly and convergently had nothing to resign into the Speaker's hands.

Vacancies by death or resignation can be filled up by the isseed of the Speaker's wirt dusing a Parliamentary recess, but such a vacancy as that in question, which arises by operation of law, can only be filled up by a resolution of the House, or which the Speaker acts.

Mr. Alkineur's resignation, if tendered prior to his incolvency, would, no doubt, have occasioned such a vacancy as that the Speaker out deal with it in recose; but the prior inselvency defeats the subsequent proteuce of resignation, and Ceutral Cumberlead must remain without a member until Parliament meets.

I sm, Sir, your obedient servant.

MONUMENT TO G'CONNELL.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin — As reference was made to my letter at the meeting held on I hursday evening, with regard to the raising funds for the O'Conneil monument, I would feel obliged by your inverting my letter on that subject, which will speak for itself.

St. Patrick's, Sydney, 17th April.

St. Patrick's, Sydney, 17th April.

"To Mr. W. Sigersen, hon. secretary A. H. A.

"Deer Sir,—In reply to your 'circular' inviting me to attend a meeting for the purpose of raising funds to erect a measurement to the illustrious O'Connell, I beg to state my willingness to co-operate in that noble object; but, as I remarked in my letter lately published in the Freemen's Journal, there is snother collection of great public interest to the Catholica of New Bouth Wales now in progress, and which cannot been delay—that of making up the last instalment for the completion of St. John's College, in order to secure as equal amount up to the munificent sum of £20,000 from the colonial Government, and which must be realised within the month of June next, when the contract for complating the odlege will be finished.

As I took an active part in getting up the great public meeting, held in Sydney towards the end of 1844, to express sympathy with the great O'Connell and his fallow-sufferent for hir harsh and illegal imprisonment in the Richmood Penetectiary, Dublin, I am now equally willing to lead my sid, after a short time, towards raising a respectable subscription to erect a menument worthy of the greatest friend to his country in the capital of the ancient hingdom of Ireland; but I cannot give up the urgent work in which I am now ergoged, viz., that of the completion of St. John's College, for any other matter, no matter how commendable and deterwing of public sympathy and add it may be."

"I REMERTWORTH DEGGINGS.

THE WENTWORTH DIGGINGS.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—Observing, in your report of the Ithis instant, the amount of gold taken from the prospecting claim "Perseverance," wentworth; I am glad to see that your correspondent has not overrated it; on the 3rd instant, when the citior of the Western Examiner paid us a visit, he saked us how much gold we expected from the weight, but by no mean did we say it was the result of our seven weeks work, which it seems he understood it to be; and as we have no wish to keep it a secret; I think I shall be doing justice in giving a true account of the actual amount of gold got up to the present date. Being a shareholder, I am in a position to do so; therefore, including all prospects, we have cleamed and weighed 372 ounces, or 3l libs. weight, excluding about twenty loads of tailings, which we think, will go 2 concess to the ton when crushed, also about ono ten of tronetone, a sample of which we crushed, about I ewit, which yielded 5 ounces or clean gold, but of course we do not expect it will all go like that.

Should you think this worth inserting in your next issue it will be giving a true history of the claim up to the present time, and every appearance of it continuing good; being now engaged putting the shaft in order before going into the water, there is nothing further to report about gold.

I am, your obedient servant,

SLOAN, and Party.

The share market has been quiet during the week, but this is entirely owing to the scarcity of stock in the market for sale, there being still plenty of buyers anxious to invest in most of the dividend-paying companies. In Com-mercial and Bank of New South Wales shares there have been no sales this week, but there are purchasers of the former at advanced rates.

Australian Joint Stock Bank shares are firm. and the late advance has been maintained. As there is still a demand for these shares, a further rise in price is looked for. In steam shares the only transaction is a small sale of the new shares only transaction is a small sale of the Australasian Steam Navigation Company, which establishes the decline previously noticed, and which was expected when it was annunced that the directors did not intend to make any more calls on these shares. The present price, however, is still much higher in proportion to that of the old shares. in proportion to that of the old shares. Insurance shares are in great request. Sydney Insurance shares are enquired for, and have improved 4s. per share on last sales. Since their half-yearly meeting, in consequence of their dividend being at the rate of 20 per cent. per annum, holders will not sell except at a further advance of 5s. per share. In United Fire and Life and Pacific Insurance shares there have been several sales at full rates. Wellsand

The markets generally have presented a novel aspect. The caesais exports to Great Britain, the rise in freights and exchange, and the scarcity of money which always exist upon the approach of the China new year, all tended to the conclusion that raits would then become easier. This expectation has not been realised, except in so far as the market of Vokohama is concerned. The holders skewhere have evineed singular firmness, especially for green 1928, which are evidently in short supply. In fact the receipt of the advices from London have caused the markets of Canton and Foschow to advance, and the same cause will of course produce a similar effect upon the Northern markets.

What makes this result more inexplicable is the circumstance of the course produce a similar effect upon the Northern markets.

Oolongs.—23,960 half-cheets at 11½ to 15½ tacks for common to general Team.—8600 boxes at 15½ to 25 tacks for fair. Of green teas the market has been swept on native account for shipment to Shantung. Hankow.—No transactions are reported as having taken place since last mail. Five chops of congou have arrived from the country during the fortnight, three of which being contract teas, were shipped to Shanghal. The stock remaining on the market is reported at 12 chops, and it is known that a few chops still remain in the country. The total settlements of the season to date amount to $27 chops comms, coppeds, and holows, besides schope contract teas. So that the total supply of the present seases, from this one port only, will be very little short of $00 chops congou.

FAT Cattle,—Market well supplied with cattle of fair quality, which sold at prices ranging from £1 10s., up to £4 per head, There is every prospect of the market being well supplied. Fat Sheep.—There has been a flock of fat sheep in this week, which sold at an average of 12s, 3d. There are a great many sheep on the way to market, and, unless the quality is very good, lower prices will have to be submitted to.

Working Bullocks of a good description are in demand, and selling from £10 to £15 per head.

Mixed Cattle, for paddock freding, continue to be looked after, and realise fair prices.

Horsec.—The market is well supplied with horses of a midding description; really good useful aninoals can be quitted well.

Tallow, hides, and sheepskins are in demand.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1863.

Ix is a misfortune to any country when scatiments which, in their proper channels, do honour to human nature, are perverted by moral obtuseness. Such has been the sympathy with those who suffer the punishment of crime. Any one who understands the working of the huma

one who understands the working of the human heart will not always attribute misplaced com-passion to moral insensibility. The truth is, minds are commonly so formed that they survey but a very limited scope and comprehend but a few facts, and such only as are obvious and present. Hence when we see a human being in the hands of instead working and belief in the hands of justice, unresisting and helples when we behold his tremulous movements his imploring eye, his terror or his sorrow—it is natural that we should find ourselves occupied tack we should find ourselves occupied too much by his humiliation and suffering to take a full view of the causes, progress, and consequences of his crime. The author of Don Quixote represents his hero under the impulse of generous sentiments liberating a number of convicts crawling under the weight of their chains, or reacting a worthless servant their chains, or rescuing a worthless servant from the lash of his master. The sequel may be easily guessed. It may not always require the degree of aberration with which the "Knight of the Rueful Countenance" was afflicted to confound in the mind of an unreflecting spectator, suffering with innotence, and the want of power with the want of inclination to do mischief. We must not expect that the common opinions of the masses will ever exactly reflect the trath. They are struck by some strong colouring—some salient fact—something that seems by its magnitude and potency to

We should, perhaps, do injustice were we to ascribe to an absolute lack of virtuous principle the cheers and applauses obtained by the scoundrels of patriotism. Those who see their exploits do not inquire nor care to know what are their motives, their characters, their past history, their present schemes. They look to the bearing of that particular act which they applaud upon the views in which they are sharers, and often give their acclamations where in private they would score to give their hand.

they would scorn to give their band. It is the same with the compassion which is con-ciliated to the criminal when the sentence of the isw has deemed him to long imprisonment or te an ignominious death. Then, that which he possesses in common with our nature strikes the mind rather than that which distinguishes him from society in his conduct. It is felt that he is a human being having the same love of life—the same desire of liberty—the same sense of suffering—the same dread of futurity. It is under these circumstances that often a cry is taked in his favour when nothing could be said in his defence. The populace have always applied the interposition of mercy, where their passions have not been greatly aggravated; although, sometimes, where this has been the case, they have refused the ordinary right of the accused, and by summary violence suticipated or exceeded the sentence of the

Probably in many instances this exaggerated compassion arises from mistaken views of Christ-compassion arises from mistaken views of Christian obligation. The broad principle, "Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you," is laid down and cannot be disputed. The question then is proposed. "Can a man obey this law while he is depriving another of his liberty or his life?"—for there is really no difference in the two cases on this principle although ence in the two cases on this principle, although sophism is entirely disposed of when it is ex-plained that the law is not what a man would wish for considering himself a sufferer, but what in his own judgment he would deem to be right and equitable, considering all the interests concerned; what, not having violated any law, or intending to do so, he, jointly with all others, would lay down as a fair and equitable exection from these who commit crimes against nature and society? As to the right which men have over each others' lives that comes to be a very different question. Both law and theology distinguish between malicious homicide and the distinguish between malicious homicide and the taking of life in a just war, or in self-defence, or for the punishment of crime. Some have gone to the extent of holding that it is not only a right but a duty to exact from the murderer the explation of his own life for the blood he sheds. It is, indeed, a very consistent whather anything short of death serious question whether anything short of death is a safe penalty for murder?—Whether the instincts of human beings would not arm them against the murderer if the law did not inter-against the murderer if the law did not interpose and, after proof given and defence made, exact his forfeited life as the penalty of his crime? If it be true that the punishment of death is the lighter punishment, then there may be reasons for is commutation; but if it be shown, as we think all inference warrants, that the punishment of death acts with more terror upon the human mind than any penalty from which it is impossible to separate the idea of temporal hope, then the abolition of the punishment of death can hardly be deemed just to society.

The misplacement of compassion is often The misplacement or compassion is sadly evident in the oblivion of those who suffer the career of a criminal. What a sadly evident in the oblivion of those who suffer by the career of a criminal. What a mass of misery often the life of one bad man represents? Frequently he has resisted all influence of a benign nature, and shut his eyes to every form of warning or instruction. Or, he may be the victim of others who have followed that course, and who have left him without either teaching or example such as might counteract his evil propensities. He then pursues his career with remorse-less violence, spoiling all who may come within his reach, endangering the Concourn's Enquirer.—An inquiry into the cause of death of a man named Michael Pair, aged fifty-five years, commenced by the City Coroner on Thursday, was resumed and concluded yesterday. The deceased had been infirm and paralysed a considerable time, and was addicted to the intemporate use of intoxicating drink. On Wednesday meaning lest, his wife could not wake him, and upon examination it was found that he had been seized with an apoplectic fit. Dr., Gr.; was called in, but the patient was then necessions and dying, medical skill being of no avail. Verdict.— Died from an apoplectic fit. in debauchery, corrupting those around him; leaving often representatives who may continue his career of crime when he is withdrawn from it by bonds, or by the hands of the executioner. Now surely society which suffers at large, and individuals who separately bear Rises, | Sets, Morn. | After SATURDAY | 6 20 | 5 81 | 7 58 | SEMBAY | 6 30 | 5 30 | 8 47 | the burden of such crimes, are the proper objects of pity, and the misdirected compassion which spare the offender because he is a man ought to protect the injured because he is enocent. It is an invidious task to stand up when com intercept the proyer or forbid the commutation. There are many who can reason out the principle who would fail to apply it; whose consciences might tell them that they were njuring society by misplaced compassion, an I who would yet shrink from destroying the last hope of the guilty. But while this may be the case, it is doubly their duty to support the Ministers of Justice who have the protection of society, and whose consciences are charged to vindicate outraged law, and to make the worthless and criminal suffer for their wrong. The object of punishment is not to recover and reform the offender, though incidentally this may be pursued, because reformation is really for the protection of society as well as for the welfare of the reformed; but the great purport of punishment is to prevent the accessity of its infliction—to make one suffer that many may be deterred, and by his suffering to throw a shield over those who otherwise would have no protection from the hand of the spoiler or the murderer.

THE disagreement between the Government and the Wallsend Company has found its way into the Supreme Court. The decision given has not turned upon the merita of the case, the suit having been dismissed on the ground that the wrong mode of proceeding against the Crown had been adopted. The facts disclosed in the arguments acduced on behalf of each party to arguments acduced on behalf of each party to the suit quite confirm the opinion we expressed some time back, viz, that it was a mistake on the part of the Government ever to have given the company any special rights on the wharf. Of course no one foresaw the collisions of inter-est that would arise, or under no pressure would the arrangement have here accorded. But the the arrangement have been agreed to. But the principle of an ambiguous copartnership between the Government and a company was a bad one, and has worked badly. The Government found the wharf, and the company found the cranes, and the consequence has been that for months past there has been a coronic dispute as to the rights and privileges appertaining to each partner. Each has accused the other, and been accused it elf, of an attempt at over-reaching. The company has charged the Government with tying to assume such rights over the cranes as are it g to assume such rights over the granes as are equivalent to a quasi-ownership; and the Government has accused the company of attempting to secure such a monopoly of a portion of the wharf frontage as is equivalent to a quasi-

As a general rule of policy, the less the Go ventment has to with carrying on commercial enterprises the better. But in these colonies it is impossible to carry out this rule. The very fact that the Government is the great landlord involves it in the performance of landlord's lutics. And as it reserves to itself nearly the best wharf frontages, and all navigation rights, it comes under obligation to effect such improvements as shall keep pace with the advance of commerce. In many respects, both politically and financially, it is unfortunate that the Government should have so many and various public works on its hands. Roads, bridges, railways, telegraphs, harbridges, railways, telegraphs, har-breskwaters, river improvements, jettics, &c., all have to be to at once. The depart-bewildered and distracted by the bours, wharfs, multiplicity of claims, many of which are pushed with a pertinacity altogether out of proportion to their deserts. But there seems to be no help for it. Government cannot escape from the obligations that rest upon it, and must continue to get through its multifarious duties in the best way possible, with as little waste of time and money and as little jobbery as may be. One thing, however, is clear, and that is, that desirable as it is to encourage private enterprise and to devolve on it all it is willing to undertake, private and public investments of capital should be kept distinct. Whatever the Government manages let it manage exclusively. Coper nerships between it and private specu-lators will be fertile in disputes. The only way n which Government can devolve its duties respecting public works, and yet retain a dor-mant right, is by leasing. This is feasible enough under certain circumstances, and may

If the Government had leased to the Wallsend Company for a term of years a certain length of the wharf frontage, the arrangement would have been intelligible, though we do not say it would have been expedient. As it was, the agreement was not a lease, and yet it par took somewhat of the nature of a lease. The company was allowed to have prior, though not exclusive, rights; but the exact limit of these rights was not defined with sufficient strictness, and a good deal of the negotiation appears to have been carried on verbally. The margin for diverse interpretations was of course pretty con-

The MINISTER FOR WORKS is not to be blamed for protecting the public interests. It is his duty to do so. Public companies are naturally grasping. Give them an inch and they will take an ell. Mr. ARNOLD is bound to see fair play between all competing coal com-panies who use the Newcastle wharf, and to allow no favouritism. If the Wallsend Com-pany can be shown to have been grasping at privileges beyond the equity of the original spree-ment, and which operated unfairly to other com-panics, the resistance to their claim is amply justified. At the same time the comit can show that, having invested mon y on the faith of certain promised facilities which have not been forthcoming, it has been fireed, in self-defence, to push to an extreme all rights that it could possibly claim. The refusal of the Government to put la sidings seems unquestionably to have been a practical breach of faith. For, whitever the original agreement meant, it certainly meant that, in consideration of the capital spent by the company, and the traffic brought on to the nt line and the Government wharf, all reasonable facilities would be supplied; and to reasonable facilities would be supplied; and to refuse so simple and cheap an accommodation as sidings was certainly to fall short of the spirit of the agreement. It may, perhaps, be said that when the company showed a disposition towards monopoly it was free to bring it to terms by any means. But such a relatiatory policy is not open to a Government. One wrong does not justify another. The Government is bound firmly to resist all encroachments, but is equally bound to fulfil all engagements.

The simplest way of putting everything square again, and foreclosing the possibility of further disputes, is obviously for the Government to buy up the cranes, and resume, what it is now obvious should never have been parted with, the entire control of the whole wharf. with the entire control of the whole wharf. The power to do this has been fortunately reserved. The only objection that can be urged to this plan is that the bargain would be an improvident one on behalf of the public, as the cranes are not worth now what they cost. But it is worth something for the Government to get out of a smalling for the Government to get out of mething for the Government to get out of itself solely responsible; and, moreover, it would tearcely be equitable to throw upon the company the loss arising from the depr. cintian in value of the cranes. It was from no fault of the company that they erected the cranes. They wished the Government to provide them, but the duty was shirked. Had the Govern-ment undertaken the work, it would have had to incur all the costs the company has been at, and would have had to go through all the expensive business of experimenting on its own secount. If all accounts are true, the only Government crans that has as yet been put up has been far more expensive, and is not a whit more of a success than the company's ctanes. The latter, too, if tot equal to what they were intended to perform, are more than equal to all that is now practically required of them, and to remove them, therefore, would be a wanton waste of money.

If the Government were once possessed of all the cranes, uniform regulations could then be made for their use. All companies would be made for their use. All companies would be put on the same footing, and take their turns. There would then be no favouritism and no jeslousy. And, pending the erection of the new Government cranes—one of which his unfortunately been shipwrecked—it would be easy to meet the demand, whenever there was a pressure of ships in the port, by working overtime or by sending relays of mea.

The coal trade is carable of great extension

The coal trade is capable of great extension if nothing cramps its development. The strike did something to hinder it, but that has passed away, never, we hope, to return. It will be unfortunate if fresh hindrances should spring up in consequence of irreconcilable disagreements between the Government and the coal owners.

RICHARD GREEN.—By the late mail, Mr. Alexander Moore has received a letter from the chempica oarsmen Green, who was sent to England for the purpose of making a match with some of the crack pullers of the mother country. Green mentions, amongst other things, that he is in excellent health and spirits; that his best has arrived safely; that he has taken out a putunt for the model; and that a deposit has been made for a match with either Everson or Crambers; his challange being to row the winner of the championship. He speaks well of the treatment he has received at the hands of Ke'ly, and of Mr. W. G. Moore; and safes that many presons will back him at slight odds in the contest. There is some complaint of the delay which occurred in remitting the match-money; but this was the fault not of the hon treasurer, but of those subscribers who have delayed paying up. The money was in fault forwarded by Mr. Alexander Mcore at his own risk; but now that the arrangements for the contacts are concluded, there is no doubt that the parties who put their names down on the list will follow up their intention by sending in the smounts promised.

the Chamber. Mr. Sybel said that the Chamber ought to warn the Government of the course they were pursuing if a return was still possible; if it were not the Chamber ought to disown them.

Eulembourg, Minister, replied that Poles had been arrested at Thom; that they were not given up, but only expelled from the Prussian territory across the Russian frontiers. He denied the crossing of the frontier at Gotlieb.

said that the Government having declared that they could not reply to the questions put, the Opposition in any other country would have remained quiet in the face of such a declaration.

The Minister added that the reports circulated with regard to the tenor of the convention were nothing more than fables. According to the convention, the special consent of the respective Governments is nicessary for each passage of the frontiers, and affirmed that the Government had made no stipulation to the contrary. The Government concluded the Minister has nothing to disavow, and this will be seen when the terms of the onvention are known. After a six hours' debate, in which the policy of the Government was fiercely attacked, the discussion was adjourned to the following

LATEST NEWS FROM PARIS. FROM THE OWN CORRESPONDENT OF THE

"SEMAPHORE DE MARSEILLES." [ TBANSLATED FOR THE " HERALD."]

Paris, 25th February.
In the midst of the confused and contradictory rumours which bear upon the present situa-tion, I have no choice but to follow them and to tran-mit them to you without comment. Yes-terday and the day before I thought I had discovered something definite, as I thought I had got the clue to the projects of the French Government. I now confess that I throw up all pretensions to divination and prophecy, and again betake myself to the task of a simple chronicler.

I have already given you notice of the tendency of Austria to bring herself nearer to France and England upon the Polish question; and I have detailed the numerous difficulties that stand in the way of the triple alliance. These difficulties have not disappeared, but, on the contrary, they seem to rise every day to the surface, as much in London as in Vienna.

When the French note was sent to Berlin, the agreement of the Powers (l'accord) was considered complete and definite; but it was soon discovered that this was a mistake. In fact, on the morning of the 22nd, a very long conversation took place at Vienna, between the Count de Rechberg, the English ambassador, and M. de Grammont, our ambassador. It was in this conversation that the differently directed views of the three Powers were first fully views of the three Powers were first fully shown. The possibility of a demonstration on the Rhine, and the forcible possession of the left bank, was strongly opposed by the Count de Rechberg; Austria is a federal Power, and she could not lend her hand to a measure that would sanction an externor them. attempt upon German territory, without breaking with the German Confedera-tion, and violating the Constitution. This, in effect, is the great and almost the only diffi-culty that stands in the way of the enterprise, and it is most likely that by this difficulty the intervention project of the three Powers will be

However that may be, just now people are much less sembre than they were yesterday; on different sides I hear pacific proposals spoken of, proposals coming both from St. Petersburg and London. But the most characteristic sight through all this is the attitude assumed by Prussia. Ostensibly she seems to be retracing her steps, and is perhaps upon the very point of altogether disavowing the Convenof the 8th February. I will give you only tion of the 8th February. I will give you only one fact as an instance:—

The Journal des Debats published yesterday a correspondence which had ostensibly come from Berlin, and which gave the tenor of the Prusso-Russian Convention. In that correspondence the Convention assumed an excession in the force of the convention assumed an excession in the force of the convention assumed an excession in the force of the convention assumed an excession in the force of the convention assumed an excession in the force of the convention assumed an excession in the force of the convention assumed an excession in the force of the convention assumed an excession of the convention assumed as a convention of the convention of the convention as a convention of the conven policience the Convention assumed as Executively inoffensive character, reducing itself to a few stipulations only. I have learnt that this correspondence had a most suspicious origin. correspondence and a most suspicious origin. It was the Prussian Embassy that furnished the manuscript to M. de Sacy. I may add also, that under another form it had also been furnished to other journals, which absolutely refused to publish it.

Over and above this, the most positive information, allow me to tell you that the clauses of the Convention authorise Prussian troops to advance upon Polish territory to the distance of three German miles from the frentier. This stipulation has already become a very serious

The news from the theatre of war contains no new incident. I remark only two documents of any great interest. The first is a General Order of General Langiewicz, issued after the battle of Stakow. This order, which verifies the check received by the Russians, is energetically written, and has, moreover, the advantage of answering decisively all the pessimist re-ports that had been reported with regard to this skilful general.

The second document is a proclamation from The second document is a proclamation from the farm proprietors, the high nobility, addressed to the inaurgents. In this, they declare that they have throughout opposed the insurrectionist projects, as they could only see in them an aggravation of the miserable lot of unfortunate Poland, but since the movement had taken place, since the insurrection had burst forth they would without recommendation. taken place, since the insurrection had burst forth, they would, without reserve, give in their adherence to it, and were ready to serve it by every means in their power. The preclamation verifies the fact of the enthusiasm which seemed to force the youth of the land on to the field of battle, and it adds, in a spirit of stern resolve, "After the sons, the fathers!" Persons here who know Poland and the people after the this decleration. and the people affirm that this declaration is one of the most important facts that could have been brought forward in favour of this move-

At Paris, there always exists a lively excite ment on the subject of the Poles. In opening a subscription list, the Siecle and Patrie have ouched a chord that only asks to vibrate. checked of late by the Rouen subscription, and it is to be feared that these papers will find but a feeble echo to their call.

The Constitutionnel continues, by its solemn intertangled yarns, to disconcert its readers. It makes a series of marches and counter-marches

—a succession of rapid evolutions, in the midst of which the brain is bewildered. It is scarcely three days ago since the Constitutionned announced to us that Russia sought to come to an understanding with England on the subject of Poland. But not a word then about Austria.

To-day, according to that paper, England, France, and Austria have agreed, and all the world may go to rest in peace. I quite agree that the agreement of these three Powers, if it that the agreement of these three Powers, if it be real and serious, will assure the peace of Europe; but the affectation with which this semi-official journal, speaking of the panic on the Bourse, proves the amelioration of events, at once renders its article suspicious, and I assure you that I am not the only one who thinks this. The article of the Constitutionnel teaches nothing, a very opposite conclusion to that of the Constitutional, for though I believe in the first instance in the accord of the three Powers, I am not quite certain that they may not succeed in causing an explosion.

Yesterday there was some talk of a letter that was said to have been addressed to the Emperor Napoleon by the Emperor of Russia. It is spoken of again to-day, but silence as to its tenor is very carefully kept; in truth, does the Emperor of Russia consent to restore liberty to Poland under the terms of the treaty of 1815, or is he reselved to push repression to an extremity and to brave the malediction of Europe? This is the position of the question at the present

By the way, M. de Budberg demanded an audience with the Emperor on the day before yesterday. He was received during the day, and in the course of the conversation, which was and in the course of the conversation, which was a very long one, nothing but Poland was talked about. M. de Budberg had preferred a voluminous file of papers against the insurrection. He was not able to read them all to the Emperor, but he endeavoured to give a synopsis of them, in order to show that the insurrection was not a national mayer. that the insurrection was not a national move-meet, but a social st and a demagoguic one.

The Emperor speaks little. He interrupted In the Emperor speaks little. He interrupted M. de Budberg two or three times, in order to fix the leading facts referred to; but repulsed the inferences drawn. "I see very well, M. l'Ambassadeur," he said, "that the hand of the Revolution is in the Polish insurrection; but it seems to me that if Russia had kept her engagements towards Poland she would by that engagements towards Poland she would by that very fact have kept off the Revolution, bytaking away all pretext for it."

M. de Budberg bowed and silently left the audience, and the same evening transmitted a despatch in cypher to St. Petersburg, giving, no doubt, a resume of the conversation. He was under the impression, however, that he had been able to impress his views upon the head of the State, for he said so publicly in the saloon of the embassy. The attitude assumed by the Moniteur yesterday and to day has, no doubt, undeceived him by this time.

A new ally for the Polish nation has come concesls nothing, but is simply a means for forcing up the funds. Beyond this there was no possible necessity for it.

All my enquiries have led me to a very opposite conclusion to that of the Constitutionel, for though I believe in the Constitutionel, for though I believe in the days and the control of the possible necessary of the constitutionel, for though I believe in the days are the possible necessary of the possible necessary of the constitutionel, for though I believe in the days of the possible necessary of the neces

We wished to recent for the relief of their physical wants, abund on recent for the relief of their physical wants, abund on resources, and to distribute them so as to support life and health by sufficient food, clothing, and fuel. We have, as a central committee, from the first been correct on the one hand in promoting an adequate rate of relief, and on the other hand in restraining all extraorgance and recentricity in the amount of sid.

But the Central Executive Committee have also had to consider the means of providing for the maintenance of prepare relations between the distributors and the reolpients of rilit; we have he do watch over the preservation of the wennes and gride from the dangers incident to want of occupation. We have had to gather youth and children from the dart, distributors and strangers incident to want of comparison. These, as well as the relief of physical distress, have been the indispensable duties of our position.

The application of the New South Wales Fund to these objects in no degree crippied our resources for the relief of physical distress, that the people should not be disheartened nor deprayed by want of occupation, but rather improved by training and industry, or by stiendance during the inclement weather at school.

The result as detailed in the report of our Office Committee has surpassed our most sanguine expectations.

The Chine Overland Trade Report of that date supplies us with the following general resume of the month's news:—

In our hast issue, it was explained that the experimental digities of the British Lightion at Perking hai result dia a state of affire which involved the most imminent risk to political relations. In pursuace of a scheme which ever kept in view paronage and personal aggrandisement, the functions of the British Minister, in the creacity of Super niendent of Trade, had been made subservient to the Chinese Customs revenue. The pomisse of non-int-rvention so repeatedly made by the English Government, and the convention of neutrality made between the laspings and the British authorities, had been set at anught by an illicit system of active interference pursued by the Commanders-in-Chief of H. M. land and see forces at the insignation of the British Minister. This system had been adopted in violation of instructions, and had been pursued under both concealment and misrepresentation. The development of this system having excited diseatisfaction in England, its continuance could not be much longor calculated on—so that the plan hit upon was to make Mr. Lay, who is the head of the Meritime Customs and a mere tool of the Legation, the Chinese envoy to London, to the end that the Foreign Enlistment Act might be assuppaided in his favour, so that he should be enabled to raise a free to oppose the Taipings: which force, the Custom srevume being entirely under the thumb of the British Minister, his Excellency will be able to carry out his ideas with, whether those be in favour of the Manteboo dynasty or of British territorial annexation. It was explained that ever yet, although such aggressive roids as it was Admiral Hope's hothit ois. dulge in had been discontinued, and making every margin for the currying out of the thirty mile radius idea, still the British authoritis were neither egyrling the Forign Enlistment Act, nor yet observing bone fide neutrality in any munner.

It was structured that the tendency of provinces which they occupied. A circumstance has since occurred strongly illustrative of the veracity of this statement. In the Canton province, about fifty miles from Macao, is a large town, not wailed, called Qwashai. It is an important place, being situated at the entrance of a large round or inland sea, wherein a great portion of the traffic of the province is conducted. The district has been in a disturbed state from the prevelence of full dights for a long time. A few days ago, a bidy of manuders attacked Qwashai at dirove all the inhabitents who excepted, into a little fort land by. That held out for some little time, but at length fell, when every living being in it was butch red.

and drove an the inhances who excepted, into a five fort lard by. That held out for some little time, but at length fell, when every living being in it was butchered.

The advices from Ningpo state that Capiain Dew, of II. M. S. Encount r., had started on his raid against Shaouhing, which he contemplated taking on the 18th.

From Tientsin the advices state that there were large bodies of marsuders in the vicinity.

The intelligence from Japan is both slarming and important. A site called Goteng-yama had been fixed upon about a year and a half since for the erection of the foreign legations at Yedo The appropriation of this site had caused much annoyance to the nobles as well as to the people. The British Legation had just been completed and almost ready for furnishing, when on the lat February, during the night, it was set fire to, and, having been previously stored with combustibles, was destroyed in a few minutes. Guns were fired off immediately afterwards as a demonstration of joy, and nothing could be plainer than that a gross positical affiort was meant.

For some time past the Governor of Yokoama has expressed anxiety at foreigners leaving the settlement, and by last advices they had been especially cautioned on the subject.

But mere important still. The Shanghai Recorder, a highly respectable journal, publishes an alleged translation of a proclamation from the Mikado (the Emperor), which is stated to have been received from the correspondent of that paper, and bears the initials of the translator. The principal doubt of its authentity respectable repudiates the Tycoon and the treaties too, expresses the utmost determination not to admit foreigners into the country, and calls upon the Daimios to assist it expelling them. The reduction of Yedo by the advent of the Daimios still continues.

Admiral Kuper, with the Buryalua, a couple of sloops, and some gunbeats, has gone to Yedo — whether on account of the late intelligence thence, or secording to instructions from home, is not publicly known.

[PKON OUR PARIS CORREST FORDERT]

I me address of the Senate in reply to the Speech from the I hoto, after a very quict discussion, has been adopted by a vote that would have been unanimous but for the one "only" of Frirce Napoleon. His Highness too no part in the discussion; but as the tenour of the of the address is stopely landatory of the Imperial policy, in regard to which it is well known that Frince Napoleon is anything than earthurisatic, it is evident that attemuch his anything than earthurisatic, it is evident that attemuch his my memory asserts, have been induced by the Emport to rethin from a possing in the Senate during the present season, he could not steve even a tack assent to the complimentary flourishes of the address.

The Kinperor thereupon withlows his objection, and authorised Prince Napoleon to read it as it was. domain of Greese on the side of lu-ey; a condition which the reigning failan is hardy the main to sill we of being carried out.

From unhappy Poland we have contradictory accounts, but of the fact that revolutionary mevements have broken out over nearly the whole of her ancient territory it seems impossible to doubt. Russian Poland has been declared to be under martial law, and troops are in motion in all the Polish provinces. The rigour with which the operations of the conscription have been carried on seems to have been the immediate cause of the outbreak; but the movement is evidently the result of the invincible determination of the Poles to regain the autonomy of which they have been depirted by one of the blackast deeds of injustice to be found in history.

Garibald's wound is rapidly healing; he is already able to walk with crutches, has been out fishing, and will shortly be able to lide on horseback. His case does the utmost honour to Dr. Nelatou, who may be considered as holding, in kuropean opinion, the highest place among the surgeons of the day. The General, whose gratitude on his deliverer from so imminent a danger both to limb and to life, is touching, childlike, and entire, has addressed as short letter to the liberal Press, and the surgeons of Paris, thanking them for the recognition of the generality and skill displayed on his behalf by their illustrious townsman. It is remoured that he is about to quit Caprera; it is to be hoped that, if he do so, it will not be to lend homself to the present movement in Poland, the regard to which, however deeply one may sympathise with the aspirations which animate her people, it is impossible to induge in any hope of its being successful.

The Italian Government has advertised for plans and tenders for the construction of docks at Leghorn, Anoma, and Messias; to be constructed on the best axisting models, in direct communication with the son and the railway stations; with full accommodation for the Castoms department, and well provided with genoral and private warehouses. Letters from Turis speak of the indignation excited in Italy by the passage in the Address of the State, which says that "Rome is no longer spoken of in Turin,"—a feeling of displassure which has fund went in the Chambers, where the Ministerial party have had acme frouble in preventing the introduction of a motion, declaring that statement to be untrue. As angry discussions on the subject of Rome would hardly be productive of benefit at the present time, the Cabinet has probably seted wisely in avoiding them.

The promised reforms in the States of the Church, which would be altogether insufficient in their scope to satisfy the Roman people, even were they not determined to emancipate themselves from cierical rule, and merge their name and interests in those of Italy, are still in abovance; nor does it seem probable that they will seen be put into execution. It is runseured in this city that the Emparor has invited the Pope to "come hither to perform the ceremony of the confirmation of the Prince Imperial," and that the Pope, declining the journey on the plea of his great age, has assured the Empress of the "joy" he should feel in confirming her son, if he should visit the Eternal City. B For the more speedy transmission of letters between England and France, M. Faget, of Berdeaux, proposes to exect, at a distance of one thousand motres from the coast of Clais and Dover, a strong edifice of musoury, containing a steam-ragine sufficiently powerful to turn, forty times in a minute, an immense wheel twenty-five metres in diameter. By this rotation a series of wires, forming a gigantic strap extending across the Channel, is colid round the wheel, any at Dove

The shortness of the present Carnival seems to have determined the say world of Paris, from the head of the 6t ste down to the lewest of its members, to cram into it as many feters as the physical energies of human nature can be made to assist at im so brief a time. State and private balls at the Tullerice alternate with entertainments of a similar kind at the hotels of the Ministers and their principal "seabs;" the ambassadors emulate the hospitalities of the Government; and are followed in turn by all whose furtures enables them to profit by the example thus set in high places. Every year sees an increase of the splendour of these soirces, and also of the larish outlay by which they see marked. Importation of Pure Negretti Sheep from Hamburgh.

M ESSRS. W. DEAN and CO., Sydney, have pleasure in informing the flockmasters of this and the neighbouring colonies that they have been instructed by Messrs. Hasps and Prell to offer for sale by public competition, on a future day, which will be duly announced, a shipment, per Macessar, now due.

40 pure-bred Negretti even, from the celebrated flock of Mr. J. F. Hoffschlasger, of Weisin, in the Grand Duchy of Mecklenburg, now well known in these colonies, and whose former selection commanded each unqualified admiration, and realised the highest prices ever obtained for imported sheep,—as much as £280 having been obtained last year (in Melbourne) for a single animal. The above sheep having been selected by the preson who was specially sent out from M. Hoffschlasger's establishment to ascertain what description of sheep were most in demand, will be found much better adapted to the taste of our flockmasters, combining greater length of slaple with squal clocences and a larger frame.

Emples of wool, as well as photographs of some of the pans and owes, may be improved at the office of Messrs. W. DEAN and OO, Pitt and O'Connell streets, Sydney; and of Messrs. HABGE and PRELL, 4, Queen-street, Melbourne.

The whole of his valuable country estates, comprising the following lots —

VARROVILLE, CAMPBELLTOWN.

A FIRST-CLASS NOTED AGRICULTURAL RSTATE, on the Liverpool and Campbelltown Road (about 4 miles from the latter town), containing by grent ONE THOUSAND ACRES, but considerably in excess of this area by sotual measurement.

It is exclosed and subdivided into convenient granting and cultivation paddocab by substantial fencing, all in good order. About 150 acres have been under the plough, and the greater proportion of the estate is cleared and, well watered in all seasons by the Banburry Current Creek and numerous artificial dams, which have never been known to fail.

It is exceely necessary to make a single comment respecting the nature of the soil, "Varroville" being famous in the district for productiveness, and schnowiedged by all to be unsurpassed in richness by any other estate in the colony, as a proof of which it may be stated that the whole of the paddocks were well grassed during the late drought, and a large number of stock kept in line condition.

The improvements are extensive, and comprise a comfortable cottage residence, situated on a beautiful clevation, and approached by a noble carriage drive from the main road. It contains eight apartments besides kitchen and out-office. There are also a gardener's house, still-bouse, and worm for wine-making; barns, cow-house, ediffens, dairy, fow-house, piggery, with coppers, stock and drafting yards, and most complete ranges of etabling, inclanding a number of well finished, spacious loose boxes for blood stock. The orangury and vineyard, containing about two acres, are well stocked with full bearing plants, and there is also an ordered and garden of about 4 scree.

ing plants, and there is also an orchard and garden of alcout a cree.

About 100,000 bricks, and a large quantity of stone, sufficient for the erection of a new house, are on the land, and will be given in with the cetate.

**STARROVILLE is a superior country seat possesing advantages rarely to be met with in the colony, and capitalists, or those seeking for a first-class estate, are invited to impact it prior to the sale. The position (only about 4 miles from a railway station) is very delightful, and exceedingly salubrious, being elevated, and of that undusting character, that from any portion a charming and extensive view of the surrounding scenery is obtained. The improvements are all good and substantial, many including a large quantity of fencing, having only been recently erected by the present proprietor, and the whole has been kept in thorough repair.

R. BREWSTER has received instructions from Messrs. Christian and Bassett, in order to close a pastnership, to sell by public auction, at his Rosms, Squatters' Exchange, George-street, on WED-NEBDAY, the 6th May, at 10 clock,
THAT VALUABLE PASTORL PROPERTY, known as RUTH ULLA, comprising SIX BLOCKS of splendid grazing country, consisting of OPEN DOWNS, timbered with box and silver-leased iron-bark, splendidly grassed, with MYALL and SALT BUSE IN ABUNDANCE.

The BUNGIL CREEK, which passes through the stations, contains beyond doubt the MOST PERMANENT SUPPLY OF WATER in the Maranca District, being silmost a continuous chain of large waterholes never known to be dry. The BUNGEWAGKRIE CREEK is fairly watered, and the BACK CREEK also contains some very good holes.

slimest a continuous cham of large where the contains some very to be dry. The BUNGBWAGKRIB CREEK is fairly watered, and the BACK CREEK also contains some very good holes.

The EUTHULLA STATIONS are bounded on the sant by the Grafton Range, on the most by Lalor's and the Dawson Range, on the west by Spencer's Mount Abundance, and on the south by Bungil Downs; and are ESTIMATED TO CARRY 40,000 SHEEP.

The COUNTRY is beatily and remarkably well adapted for sheep, which thrive there to perfection. During the late long and trying season, the EUTHULLA BUNS were among the few that proved themselves equal to withstand a drought—the last lambing, notwithstanding the very dry season, averaging over 93 TER CENT. From their elevated position, lying as they do ON HIGH LAND in a bay formed by the Dawson and Grafton ranges, they are peculiarly favoured with seasonable showers.

7000 WELL-BRED CATTLE, more or less.

Constant culling, and attention to the breeding flocks, have rendered the sheep as near perfection as possible. For the last ten years the increase has been the produce of half-bred German rame, and for some time the sheep have been much improved, both as to the fleece and carcase, by the direct services of pure bred imported German rams, in proof of which the U & B wool always realises the highest market price both in the Sydney and English markets.

The cattle (originally from Mr. Icely's herd) are well-bred, quiet, and well branded up. TWO IMPORTED BULLS have been worked among the home cattle for the last two years, and no exponse has been spared in keeping up the character of the herd, which has always been undoubted, in proof of which it may be mentioned that the number of FAT STOCK which this herd will yield is from
